Reynolds, John, of King's Norton.

A discourse upon prodigious abstinence; occasioned by the twelve months fasting of Martha Taylor, the famed Derbyshire damsel: proving that, without any miracle, the texture of human bodies may be so altered, that life may be long continued without the supplies of meat and drink. With an account of the heart, and how far it is interested in the business of fermentation. By John Reynolds. Humbly offered to the Royal society. London, Printed by R. W. for N. Simmons etc., 1669.

(In The Harleian miscellany. London, 1808-13. 361st. vol. iv (1809) p. 45-55).

Cleanliness and gallinies; or, The further metamorphosis. A discussion of the problems of sanitation raised by Sir John Harrington, together with reflections upon further progress recorded since that excellent knight, by his invention of the metamorphosed Ajax, father of conveniences, revolutionized the system of sanitation in this country but raised at the same time fresh problems for posterity which are discussed in all their implications, with numerous digressions upon all aspects of cleanliness, by the author, Reginald Reynolds ...
